The Fair Grounds—A Stock Exhibition—Cute Shows—The Accumulations—The Premium Sirene Parade—Accident.
 WINCHESTER, Aug. 31, 1858
 Editors Louisville Courier: I landed in lovely little village at 2 o'clock this morning, and after partaking of a hearty breakfast at Mr. L. H. Say's "National Hotel," I was Jehned to the fair grounds, about one mile from Winchester—most lovely sight my eyes feasted upon—beautiful woods, well arranged ring, hale men, and bright-eyed women.

After forming the acquaintance of the president, Mr. Wm. R. Duncan, I was introduced to Mr. Winn, the secretary, who provided me with

The directors endeavor to make it a stock exhibition, literally, their aim being the improvement of horses, cattle, sheep, and hogs; and I must admit a finer exhibition will not be seen at any fair in Kentucky.

dered very large. All seem to enjoy themselves to the utmost. Every kind of side show is here in full blast. The "Indian Giant," with a hawk and scalp, down to the "Texas Dwarf,"—little Miss who has buried two husbands, many children, and now ready for another "big gain and intrigue." A red checkered dame disposing of jewelry at one dollar a chance, herself considered the capitol prize.

The accommodations at the fair, for strangers, is better than any I have ever attended. The proprietors, directors, and managers have labored Minter's celebrated band discoursed most bewitching music between the acts, and added greatly to the enlivening of the occasion.

In the ring, for work, steers, there was fitted couple exhibited—the finest display in the world. After the premium and certificate were awarded the judges had it given out that they "never were in a tighter place." The awards seem to be

In the evening a science d'armes came off at the National House, gotten up in magnificent style by the landlord, Mr. Wm. A. Lindsay, who deserves especial notice for his many attentions to all who come under his charge. Mr. Lindsay's name is loudly fitted up and every one is green to it.

comfort of guests. The music was good, the dancing excellent, the ladies beautiful, and the men gallant as knights of the garter.

There were in attendance at the fair, about four thousand persons, and only one accident. In tugging bulls out of the ring, one of them became unruly, and butted the negro in attendance against a tree, injuring him internally very severely.

Yours, etc., CORPORAL.

POLICE COURT.

GEO. W. JOHNSTON, Judge.

THURSDAY, September 10.

PRICE WARRANT.—Elizabeth Smith, was up on a peace warrant by Nancy Means, an old woman who says she commenced on her daughter, and then threatened to burn her house down. The defendant stated that the allegations are false, especially to burning the house, and said that she has nothing to burn. An old lady here testified that the defendant had abused complainant at a terrible rate, and said she would burn down the old shanty. The Smith is rather a hard case as her own lawyer

THE HORSE THEFT.—The chap who is accused of stealing a horse, and swapping him for a jackass was taken before a magistrate this morning by Watchman Tiller, for examination.

THE ALLEGED RAPE CASE.—Henry McKinnel who was presented the other day, and a partial examination made, on an alleged charge of rape was before the court this morning for further investigation. The girl, or woman, is a resident of Indiana, near New Albany, and made her statement before the grand jury.

sent the other day—by which it appeared that she had been enticed over here under the promise of being taught the millinery trade. She was deceived in all that, and the milliner, was betrayed by her supposed friend, who incessantly wanted waxes, but couldn't find 'em, and the case was again continued, until to-morrow.

ing constitution? Such a man is, as Shakespeare has it, essentially mad, without seeming so. Besides, there is no excuse for remaining sick, when the means of recovery have been placed within the grasp of every valenterian. The great and good Holloway, volunteering the resources of his well stored and profitable intellect for the service of humanity, has sought, found, and abundantly supplied the antidotes to every disorder which assails the system, either from within or without. His two world-celebrated remedies are achieving, in all regions and climates, at the very moment of writing, the most successful and over the most frightful forms of disease, the most signal triumphs. Bulletins of Holloway's victories appear in every public journal that issues from the press, and more than ten thousand certificates of cures accomplished by his Pills and Ointment are published annually in Europe and in this country. No longer are mineral poisons and paralyzing narcotics considered necessary in the practice of physic. The two medicinal wonders of the nineteenth century have superseded the life, and in all countries, have reason to congratulate themselves that Professor Holloway's remedies have been given to the world. It would seem that their mild, conservative action has a special and most beneficial effect upon the female sex, and constitution at the critical periods of life—girlhood, maturity, and old age, as maiden as wife and mother, fragile and sensitive women find in these preparations the surest means of quieting every pain, regulating every disordered function, and replacing torpor and debility

The value of such a medicine as Holloway's Pills, as a household remedy, can not be overestimated. Husbands and fathers know little of the many aches and pains to which the feeble members of their families are subjected, in consequence of their sedentary habits, and the susceptibility of their nervous systems. They suffer complainingly. Diffidence, perhaps, prevents them from applying to a physician; or if they seek medical aid, it is to no purpose. But in Holloway's remedies, they have a sure means of
